Our practice ethos is to strive towards a partnership between patients and healthcare professionals based on the following:

Mutual respect

We endeavour to treat all our patients with dignity, respect and honesty. Everyone at the surgery is committed to providing excellent patient care.

Our core values

- A trusting, friendly environment with a priority and focus on optimal patient care where we nurture, empower and support all to find their full potential.
- A learning space allowing the development and training of others.
- A management team that the time as leaders to develop the organisation and communicate with each other.

Continuity of Care

Building and maintaining a strong relationship between health professionals and our patients is essential to the way we work. This is especially the case when dealing with patients who have long term conditions. In these circumstances, we encourage patients to see, wherever possible, the same health professional and we will endeavour to do this through our appointments system. However, if a patient finds that the doctor or nurse they usually see is not available, then we would encourage the patient to see any of the doctors or nurses at the practice. Continuity for all patients is promoted through regular internal meetings and communications.

Learning and Training

The practice is a training practice and we are committed to the training of doctors and nurses, who are all closely supervised. We recognise the vital role students have in keeping the practice fresh and reflective. All staff within the practice have an annual appraisal where their training needs are identified. We also recognise the benefit of supported learning for patients to enhance the ability to self-manage and deal with long term conditions.

Patient Participation Group

Parkside Surgery does not currently have an active patient participation group
